

Agile Planning Workshop (1 Day)

Industry studies clearly show that effective planning is the key to a successful project. But they also clearly show that most projects are poorly planned, and that most project managers are unsure about how to plan.

Planning To Get A Hole In One?

Wouldn't it be great if we could get everything right first time?

Unfortunately, the odds against it are truly enormous.

So why do we plan as if we can?

Do You Drive With Your Eyes Closed?

Knowing where you are, and looking where you're going, are crucial if you want to avoid nasty surprises.

So why do we try to run our projects blindfolded?

No Room Left For Burger?

If we're not 100% sure we can fit it all in, we should tackle the tastiest morsels first.

So why do we start with boring old chips?

Who Should Attend?

Project managers, analysts, developers, testers, architects, customers and any other project stakeholders who have an interest in project planning.

How Much Does It Cost?

What Will I Learn?

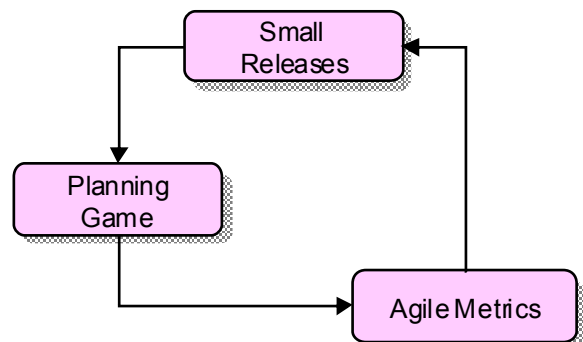

This workshop is a genuine project planning session. You bring your requirements, your bug reports, your change requests and other key project data which you will use as the basis of your plan. You will learn core Agile values and about the Agile Software Development Process. You will learn to play the Planning Game, an Agile discipline for adaptive planning, and you will create a release plan and an iteration plan for your project or projects.
